Contributions

- Migration Skill Corridors: Collaborating with Kozminski University and Erasmus University Rotterdam. This research focuses on understanding and optimizing the pathways through which skills are transferred and utilized across borders, also in the context of war.

- HR Inventory in Ukraine: Coordinated by the Scalabrini Migration Center, Inc. (SMC) in the Philippines, this initiative aims to develop a comprehensive inventory of human resources in Ukraine, addressing current and future needs.

Why This Matters

Our partners at the Ukrainian Catholic University bring invaluable insights and rigorous research to the Link4Skills project. Their work is crucial in shaping policies and practices that promote fair and effective skill utilization, benefiting both migrants and host countries, also in the context of war. Despite the ongoing Russian war in Ukraine, their resilience and commitment to advancing knowledge and supporting their community are truly inspiring.
